In addition to yielding the foregoing advantageous results, the present invention may yield another advantage of providing representations in which even when, of a plurality of objects located in the world coordinate system, an object located in a deep position is brought into focus in response to the progress of the ~~gate game~~ or operations performed by the player, there may be provided an image analogous to that which would be acknowledged in reality. More specifically, when an object located at a position away from the person is brought into the person's focus, other objects located in front of the in-focus object are recognized as being blurred. The present invention can provide representations similar to such a representation.
